

Homewood Suites by Hilton Expands in Orlando

by Adina Marcut

Orlando South Hotel More ▾

The 133-key hotel offers access to Orlando's major theme parks and convention center, as well as Orlando International Airport.

Orlando—Homewood Suites by Hilton announced the opening of Homewood Suites by Hilton Orlando Convention Center South, a 133-key hotel developed and owned by Kalson's Hospitality.

The new hotel offers a mix of studio, one- and two-bedroom accommodations featuring fully equipped kitchens and separate living and sleeping areas. Amenities of the hotel include complimentary daily breakfast, evening social Monday-Thursday, free Wi-Fi and grocery shopping service. Additional facilities include a fitness center, sports court and outdoor heated pool.

Homewood Suites by Hilton Orlando Convention Center South

Located at 6940 Westwood Blvd., the hotel is situated near a variety of dining and shopping options and offers convenient access to Orlando's major theme parks and convention center, as well as Orlando International Airport.

"Selling over 33 million room nights in 2015, Orlando is a desirable destination for both business and leisure travelers," Nathan Lipps, general manager, said in a statement. "Our convenient hotel will meet the growing demand for accommodations and offer visitors a trusted, value-driven option for short or extended stays."

Image courtesy of Homewood Suites by Hilton